At Outcomes 2019, we explored ways to achieve better, simpler, lower-cost healthcare, together.

WHY?

Healthcare is complex and fragmented – but, together, we can be champions for a better way.

WHY NOW?

Breakthrough therapies change and save lives, but come at high cost. A focus on value and results matters now more than ever.

WHY US?

We are unstoppable optimists, with the right tools and best position to improve care, drive value and lower costs.

WHY YOU?

You work most closely with those who will benefit from a simplified approach to healthcare. You have a vested interest in improving the experience for your members, clients, and for physicians.

HOW?

Using technology to engage patients where they are

Susannah Fox, Principal, Internet Geologist, LLC talked to us about how engaged patients, the right technology and a realistic view of today will lead to a better tomorrow.

Using the right clinical approach at the right time, to treat the whole person on an individual level

Snezana Mahon, PharmD, Vice President & general manager, Clinical Solutions at Express Scripts taught us that by embracing a high-tech, high-touch approach to customized, whole-person clinical care we can achieve guaranteed results clinically and financially.

Navigate the pharmaceutical landscape to ensure access and affordability

Doug Ingram, President & CEO, Sarepta Therapeutics provided a behind-the-scenes perspective on the importance and value of life-saving and life altering breakthrough gene therapies for patients and society.

What's next in healthcare

Dr. Steve Miller, Chief Clinical Officer, gave us his perspective on the future and what we need to do to drive better care for our patients and a better, simpler health care system overall.

Be nimble, be resilient and take risks to move forward and succeed

Nicole Malachowski challenged us to rethink the status quo and embrace change. As if her resume of being the first woman Thunderbird Pilot, combat veteran, and a fighter squadron commander wasn't impressive enough, Nicole shared her personal healthcare story that encourages every one of us to go beyond resilience and be resurgent.

Working together for better, simpler care

David Cordani, President & CEO, Cigna Corporation and Tim Wentworth, President, Express Scripts & Cigna Services had an informal discussion with us on how we anticipate and lead change for the better. Together, we are prepared for what's next.
